Described as an “old soul” Bailey Sheetz has an inquisitive spirit far beyond his 8 years. Fascinated since birth, not with traditional toys, but antiques, appliances and gadgets, this junior engineer studies the intricacies of how they are made and work. On YouTube’s “Talking Shop with Bailey” you can watch him review everything from his beloved vacuums to his favorite vintage coffee maker. His work ethic is equally as impressive, waking bright and early for his job at the family printing company. A keen understanding and love of the machines, he knows the business and gives tours to visitors. With his charm and unique passions, Bailey most recently appeared as a guest on NBC’S Little Big Shots with Melissa McCarthy.
